

Black Belt International Commercial Services

Introduction:

These professional services are aimed at organisations wishing to distribute services and products through the BBI Network.

Network:

The BBI has a martial arts website in every country on the planet. Each country is interconnected via a massive database.

Agents:

As one main agent from each country join they customise their home page to their own native language via an international keyboard and software.

Distribution:

Europe and USA are large markets and we have offices that can help produce and distribute products in those regions. Finding ways to ensure your products and services are marketed and priced correctly will maximise sales. Import taxes, customs charges and international shipping charges can hinder your sales so having an international presence can be a marketing and cost advantage.

Our objective:

We would like to help everyone make a success and raise market awareness of the many different products and services. BBI is always able to discuss your market needs and ways to develop your products and services without any politics.

Gateway:

BBI is a massive global network linked in to many other websites that help martial arts develop within local communities. Each of these schools, clubs, organisations and groups provide a gateway to opportunity for their members to see a range of market choices.

Take Take Take:

Networking allows people to work together. BBI's vast resources allow groups to take and put back into their own clubs and groups so the effect at grass roots level is a positive one.

Standards:

Sharing via the network simply makes knowledge more widely available and drives up standards and quality through choice and education.
